

RADIOGRAPHIC QUIZ

A 78-year-old male patient is referred for a chest x ray as he has chest pain and right upper quadrant discomfort. The chest x ray is shown.

• Please respond ...

Julio Manuel Díaz Riverol¹

Please respond to the following with True or False

- There is evidence of pneumoperitoneum*
- Right lower pulmonary lobe pneumonia*
- Elongated thoracic aorta with a prominent aortic arch and calcified atheromatous plaques*
- Right pneumothorax*
- Gas distention of the hepatic flexure of the colon*
- Prominent hilar lymphadenopathy*

Considering the clinical data and radiographic findings, which of the following exams could help for the definitive diagnosis

- Right lateral chest x ray*
- Chest CT*
- Abdominal CT*
- Intravenous pyelogram*
- Barium meal*

Answers on page 39

¹ MD, Radiologist, Belize Healthcare Partners, Belmopan Medical Imaging Center.
Email: diazriverol@hotmail.com